Game Day Music Checklist

From Team Anthem Music, makers of clean youth sports music

For whoever got handed the speaker this week. Ten minutes of prep on this list is the difference between music that lifts a game day and music that becomes a problem at one.

Before game day

- [ ] One person owns the music: named, not assumed
- [ ] Warmup playlist built and downloaded for offline play
- [ ] Bus playlist built for the ride there and the ride home
- [ ] Every song screened for language, or skip screening entirely with clean catalog music

At the venue

- [ ] Speaker tested where the game happens, volume checked from the far seats
- [ ] Phone on Do Not Disturb, so a call never hits the speaker
- [ ] Backup cable and charger in the bag
- [ ] Between-game and halftime songs queued, not searched for live
- [ ] Postgame songs ready for the photos and the walk to the cars

Team Anthem Music publishes ready-made picks for every sport: warmups, bus rides, training, and senior nights, plus a Song Finder that picks for your sport and moment. Start at teamanthemmusic.com/music-library.html
