Senior Night Music Checklist

From Team Anthem Music, makers of clean youth sports music

Senior night is the biggest music moment of the season, and it usually falls to a parent with a phone and a speaker. Work through this list the week before, and the night runs itself.

The week before

- [ ] Songs picked from the senior night list for your sport (teamanthemmusic.com/clean-senior-night-songs.html)
- [ ] Order of senior introductions confirmed with the coach or athletic director
- [ ] Playlist downloaded for offline play, not left to streaming on gym Wi-Fi
- [ ] One person named as the music owner for the night

Game day

- [ ] Speaker tested in the actual gym, rink, or field, heard from the far seats
- [ ] Introduction volume checked against the announcer's voice (music under, never over)
- [ ] Backup cable and charger packed with the speaker
- [ ] Big song saved for the starting lineup moment, not burned during warmups

Running the music

- Warmups: full energy while families find their seats.
- Introductions: steady songs, low volume, under the announcer.
- The moment: your biggest track for lineups, first serve, or first pitch.
- After the game: warm songs low while families take photos.

Every Team Anthem song is clean, and lyrics are published on the album pages for the songs released so far, so you can read every word before the night arrives.
